Many school systems are challenged by a disconnect between instructional goals at the classroom level, and the district-level strategic plan. Aligning goals, measures, and data through collaboration, vision, and shared leadership across a school district is key to driving continuous improvement.

Attend this webinar with assistant superintendent and education leadership consultant Dr. Jay Marino from the Decatur Public Schools to learn some practical strategies for administrators to establish a vision, drive change, and engage staff in the process of building a culture of continuous improvement.

Topics will include:

- The importance of aligning classroom goals and metrics with the district strategic plan
- How to establish structured goals at all levels of a district
- Case study examples of what districts have achieved by aligning goals, measures, and data

Scheduled speakers:

Dr. Jay Marino

Assistant Superintendent of Support Services,
Technology, and Data Research
Decatur Public Schools District (Illinois)
